DIRECTORS OF ALEXANDER BANK NOW GET THEIRS.

Are Sued To Recover Alleged Illegal Dividends.

THE DIRECTORS HELD LIABLE.

Sums Aggregating $48,000 Mentioned in the Petition Filed in Court.

Thomas J. Smith, Banking Commissioner of the State of Kentucky, and Buckner Woodford, Special Deputy Banking Commissioner in charge of the defunct George Alexander & Co. State Bank, through their attorney, John J. Williams, Saturday filed with Circuit Clerk W. H. Webb suit against the directors of the Alexander bank to recover for alleged illegal dividends declared.

The petition cites that on June 27, 1907, the defendants at a meeting held in the banking office declared semi-annual dividend on its capital stock of 8 per cent., amounting to $3,200, which the plaintiffs allege was illegal and contrary to the statutes, because the defendants did not deduct from the earnings of said bank all of the expenses, losses, bad debts, interest and taxes accrued or due from the bank as the law requires. Further, that said bank had not, on the 29th day of June, 1907, earned said $3,200, as contemplated by the statutes, and the banking institution of George Alexander & Co. was insolvent.

The plaintiffs say that at the time each and every one of the future dividends were declared said institution was insolvent and that said institution was insolvent on the 19th day of May, 1914, when the directors placed said institution in the hands of the Banking Commissioner. Plaintiffs further say that these defendants are jointly and severally liable for all the above sums.

The papers filed contain 15 paragraphs, each representing a dividend of $3,200 and aggregating a sum of $48,000, for which the plaintiffs allege the defendant directors are liable.

NO BLANK LINE ON BALLOT— MR. GARNETT EXPLAINS.

Many county officers are confused again about the primary ballots, and have inquired of Attorney General Garnett whether they must leave a blank line under the names of candidates for each nomination. Explaining that the primary law does not permit the writing of names of candidates on the ballot, nor the counting of votes for candidates whose names are written, Mr. Garnett said, no blank lines should be inserted.

URGES THAT OPENING OF SCHOOLS BE DELAYED

Delay in securing the school book for the county school are causing much apprehension among the superintendents and school trustees in many counties of the State, and the postponement of the opening of the county schools until they can be received is being urged by State Superintendent Barksdale Hamlett.

The short time which has been given the publishing companies having the contracts for furnishing the school books for the county schools, following the awards made by the School Book Commission is given as the reason for the delay.

Superintendent Miss Mabel Robins Saturday received a letter from Superintendent Hamlett relative to opening of the schools in Bourbon County. The letter is as follows:

"I am writing this letter to advise you to do best you can under the circumstances and use your best efforts to persuade your trustees to delay the opening of all schools in your county until the first Monday in August, at which time I believe the books can be secured.

"Sincerely yours,
"BARKSDALE HAMLETT."

CROMWELL'S MELANGE.

In his write-ups of State politics in Sunday's Enquirer, State correspondent Thomas B. Cromwell, says:

"Friends of Judge Emmet Dickson, of Paris, say that his formal announcement of candidacy for Democratic nomination for Circuit Judge in the Fourteenth District, which comprises Bourbon, Franklin, Scott and Woodford counties, may be expected soon after the primary election. Judge Robert Lee Stout, of Frankfort, will be a candidate to succeed himself in this office.

"The ratio for Congressman J. Campbell Cantrill as against former State Senator Claude M. Thomas is, allowing the latter 2,200 votes in his home county of Bourbon, 5 to 3."

MR. THOMAS SPEAKS TO BIG CROWD AT WINCHESTER.

Before one of the largest and most enthusiastic crowds ever assembled in the Clark County court house, Hon. C. M. Thomas, of Bourbon County, Saturday addressed the voters in the interest of his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Congress from the Seventh Congressional District.

The large court room was packed to overflowing and besides the large number who went away after it became apparent that there would be no chance to hear the speech of the aspirant from Bourbon. They crowded the corridors and the walls around the court room and stood in the aisles of the court room where the speaker held the attention of his hearers.

In addition to the large number of voters, which included farmers, business men and men of every walk of life there was a large number of ladies.

Mr. Thomas was introduced to the large crowd by Mr. D. L. Pendleton, one of his strongest and most ardent supporters in Clark County. Mr. Pendleton paid a glowing tribute to the record of Mr. Thomas and referred to his record in his fight for temperance.

When Mr. Thomas arose to address the voters he was greeted by thunders of applause and all during his address he was frequently interrupted by the enthusiastic crowd who gave vent to their feelings by prolonged applause.

Mr. Thomas opened his speech by paying a beautiful compliment to Clark County and her people as neighbors of his home county of Bourbon, and then took up the issues of the campaign, which he discussed at some length and made a most convincing argument as to the perfidy of his opponent who on the same platform last Saturday spoke in the interest of his candidacy for Congress.

POWELL SOLID FOR THOMAS.

STANTON, KY., July 20.—Hon. Claude M. Thomas is gaining ground all over the county. Nearly everybody in the county is opposed to Hon. J. C. Cantrill because of his stand on the liquor question. The town of Stanton is almost solid for Thomas. John Sewell, of Watersville, says that everybody in his neighborhood is for Thomas.

THOMAS CLUB ORGANIZED AT LITTLE ROCK.

Representative citizens of Little Rock, this county, supporters of Hon. Claude M. Thomas, organized a Thomas Campaign Club at that place Friday, with a large membership. The club will take an active part in the Congressional campaign.

THAVIU'S CONCERT BAND TO PLAY HERE SUNDAY, AUG. 2.

Mr. Rudolph Davis returned from Cincinnati last night, where he perfected arrangements with the celebrated Thaviu Concert Band, of Chicago, for a matinee concert at the Paris Fair Grounds on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 2. The band, which is one of the finest musical organizations in America, is now filling a two-weeks' engagement at the Cincinnati Zoo. Mr. Davis endeavored to have the band here for a night performance, but was unable to get the date, as the organization had a contract to appear in Lexington on that night.

The band will play at the Blue Grass Fair the following week following its Sunday afternoon engagement here.

The band is accompanied by six grand opera singers and a male trio of comedy singers. The Thaviu Band is widely known for its efficiency, and it will certainly play a delightful program. Added to the program is the addition of that institution known as the tabloid opera. It will be a distinctive feature of the second part of the afternoon performance. Six grand opera singers in costume will sing favorite selections from popular operas, with stage settings, making it in fact an opera in miniature. The trio of comedy singers will also be present.

He declared also that Cantrill himself had promised to vote for such a bill as the Webb-Kenyon bill, when he made the race for the nomination four years ago, and that a minister now in Indiana had written him that Cantrill made such a promise directly to him when he (Cantrill) made a speech in Henry County, where the minister was then located.

now, as regards our representation in Congress, he is impelled to exclaim: "My, God, how have the mighty fallen." It is time for us to send a man to Congress who will represent the best aspirations and the will of the people of this district and I intend to present to you a man, educated at Princeton University, a lawyer and a farmer; a man who has the courage to stand for the right and against the wrong; a Democrat whom there is no guile. No more loyal Democrat ever sought a nomination in this district. More than that he is a real man, who stands for the protection of American homes and American womanhood. I present to you the next Congressman from this district, the Hon. Claude M. Towns of Bourbon County.

Senator Thomas' Address.

Mr. Thomas spoke in part as follows:

"Four representative has gone up and down, throughout this district, vilifying and abusing those of his constituents who have grown weary of whisky domination of their public affairs, and as protest against that domination have evidenced a purpose to vote against it at this election. He occupies a lofty position as member of Congress, and the words he speaks will be listened to, if not believed, by the people of this district. The people of Scott County who were not willing to longer tolerate ballot box stuffing, and perjured certificates as to the contents of those boxes, than whom no better men live in America because of their fidelity to convictions as to morality in public life, have been the especial objects of his spiteful attack.

"I am of the opinion that they have given back in return rather more than he contracted for, and I am quite certain that they are able and willing to endure the situation. When Mr. Cantrill shall have been retired to private life these men of Scott County whose only fault is to be found in their unwillingness to support and be regarded as identified with Mr. Cantrill will continue to be, as they have heretofore been, leaders in all that affects the moral and Christian side of the life of that great county.

Abuse Was Expected.

"So far as affects me I had not expected anything but abuse and misrepresentation at the hands of your Representative in Congress. When Mr. Cantrill speaks of me it is not his voice, but that of the brewers and distillers whose interests he represents. Mr. Cantrill plays the part of Punch, but the strings are pulled from the headquarters of the brewery interests in the City of Louisville. He has spoken no truth of me since this campaign begun something over a month ago.

"I can not ask you to permit me to take up your time long enough to go over and deny all of the misstatements made by Mr. Cantrill of me, but to some of them I wish to ask your attention. He modifies his statements as he changes his location. In dry territory he accuses me of leaning to the wets and in wet territory he says I am the worst of all the drys. In no place does he speak the truth. He is like the 12-year-old boy who when on a railroad train told the conductor he was only ten, and ought to ride free, but when the age limit had to go up he did not hesitate to swear himself to be 14.

Cantrill Branded "Strange."

"He says that six years ago when I was a candidate for the State Senate I telephoned to him and asked him to meet me at the Phoenix Hotel, and that when we met there I said to him that I was about to be defeated for the Senate, and that I appealed to him to obtain for me the support of the liquor interests in my district, and that I in return for this support pledged myself to oppose the County Unit Bill. What a strange fellow your Congressman is. He and I made a race for Congress four years ago, and during that canvass Mr. Cantrill made speeches in every precinct. At that time he and his liquor allies said every mean thing possible to invent about me, but it never occurred to him to accuse me of having made this appeal to him. And that was only two years after the incident is said by him to have occurred.

"Does it not seem strange that he could better remember after six years than he could at the expiration of only two? The fact is, my friends, it is a fabrication from beginning to end. It is absolutely false, and to show you how false it is upon its very face I could not have gone to him with the statement that I was about to be defeated, because I had no opposition in that race either in my own party for the nomination, or from the Republicans at the final election.

Liquor Deal Denied.

"Haven gotten into the habit of deceiving his audience he was not willing to stop with talking of one deal, but in his speech here at Lexington went further and accused me of having made some sort of deal with the liquor dealers at Paris in the race for Congress four years ago. This statement is just as false as the other, and neither contains a particle of truth. I never made any deal with liquor dealers four years ago or six years ago, or at any other time.

"When a man starts in the wrong direction there is no limit to the depths to which he will not sometimes descend, and this rule of life is applicable not only to ordinary human beings, but sometimes applies to a man of such rare distinction as that of a member of Congress. And when our Representative made up his mind to misrepresent me in as many particulars as he could crowd into a speech he did not stop with making misstatements in regard to deals with the liquor business, but he concluded to try to play upon the prejudice of such Democrats as would believe him by giving to them his solemn word that I did not support him in the November election after he had defeated me four years ago.

Old History Reviewed.

"This statement is just as false as the other two, and there is no truth in any of the three. I owed him nothing because he had deliberately broken his word and promise not to run against me four years ago, but I owed it to my party to support its nominee, and for that reason I supported Mr. Cantrill. As proof, he says, that I did not support him, the precinct of North Middletown, in which I live gave me in the primary something over 300 votes and in the November election following only gave him about 150 votes. According to Mr. Cantrill's notion of fair dealing that ought to convict me of having been against him, but the fact is that the same rule if applied would convict a great many Democrats of this district of failing to support Mr. Cantrill, for there was a falling off of the vote in many portions of the Seventh Congressional district.

"Indeed there was every reason why it should have been so. Every man in the district knew that Senator Bradley was opposed to giving Cantrill opposition. He felt kindly toward Mr. Cantrill. There was every reason why he should have felt kindly toward Mr. Cantrill. It was understood by all that opposition to Cantrill was a mere formality and not to be seriously considered by the Republican voters. In that situation the Democratic nominee had practically no opposition, and as a result there was no intense party feeling, no political excitement, to arouse the enthusiasm and determination of Democratic voters. They ate fell off at North Middletown as it fell off at many other places throughout this Congressional District.

Cannot Question Democracy.

"No, Mr. Cantrill is not in a position to question my Democracy. I am fifty-one years of age and I have never cast anything but a Democratic ballot. I have never failed to vote at any regular of primary election, and I have never scratched a ticket. More than that, I have never given encouragement or sympathy to a Republican nominee, and this I am absolutely certain Mr. Cantrill is not in position to say for himself. For during the long struggle the Democratic nominee was making before the Kentucky Legislature for the United States Senate, NOT ONE SINGLE TIME did Mr. Cantrill DARKEN the doors of the DEMOCRATIC HEADQUARTERS, and in addition to this Mr. Cantrill, in conversation with an ex-Sheriff and ex-Representative of Bourbon County, said that the Democratic nominee deserved to be defeated.

"Leaving out for the moment his association and connection with the election of Senator Bradley, his neighbors in Scott County complain that he has never failed to give his sympathy to a Republican nominee in his home county, if that nominee was on the side of the 'wets.' Now I have it on most excellent authority that Mr. Cantrill was unwilling to aid the Democrats of Scott County and the city of Georgetown in their efforts in behalf of Hon. S. W. Hager, Democratic candidate for Governor in 1907.

Affidavit of Mr. Warring.

"Many of you know Mr. W. C. Warring. He resides at Georgetown and was recently Sheriff of Scott County and has held many other positions of trust and responsibility. No man in Scott County enjoys more thoroughly the confidence and esteem of his neighbors than does Mr. Warring. He is at present Democratic Election Commissioner of that county. He was chairman of the Democratic Campaign Committee for Scott County in 1907, and is naturally in position to speak with accuracy as to the moves and tactics of Scott County politics and politicians in that campaign.

"Mr. Warring has given me an affidavit setting forth certain facts which I will read to you. A mere statement from Mr. Warring, without being sworn to, would have been sufficient, for Mr. Warring's unsupported word would be accepted wherever he is known. The affidavit is as follows:

Asked Cantrill to Speak.

"The affiant, W. C. Warring, states that he was duly appointed Chairman of the Democratic Campaign Committee of Scott County, Ky., in the year 1907, when the various State officers were to be elected at the regular November election. During this campaign the Democratic voters of Sadieville, Stamping Ground and McFarland precincts appealed to me as Chairman of the aforesaid committee to have Hon. J. C. Cantrill speak in these precincts in the interest of the Democratic party.

"Mr. Campbell promised to comply with their requests. He was to speak in conjunction with others at Stamping Ground and Sadieville, but in McFarland he promised to speak alone. Dates for these speakings were named and advertised in the local papers and hand-bills were printed and distributed. A brass band was sent to Stamping Ground and to Sadieville. The Hon. J. C. Cantrill did not fill any of the above-named appointments nor did he speak in the county during the entire campaign. He did not attend any of the many meetings held at the Democratic headquarters in Georgetown.

Georgetown Went Republican.

"The affiant further states that by virtue of his office, being then Sheriff of Scott County, he was Chairman of the Board of Election Commissioners and was present and assisted in the counting of the votes cast in the November election of 1907, and that Augustus E. Wilson, Republican candidate for Governor of Kentucky, received in the city of Georgetown 327 over S. W. Hager, the Democratic candidate.

"The records of the County Board of County Election Commissioners show the following results in the gubernatorial contest in 1911, viz: That Edward C. O'Rear, the Republican candidate for Governor of Kentucky, received a majority of only ten votes over James B. McCreary, the Democratic candidate.

"(Signed)

"W. C. WARRING."

"Subscribed and sworn to before me this July 9th, 1914.

"W. H. GATEWOOD,

"Clerk Scott County Court."

Unwilling to Help Hager.

"Mr. Cantrill was unwilling to give of his ability as a public speaker in the interest of Mr. Hager, the Democratic nominee; promised to speak, and then broke his engagement.

"Those familiar with the political conditions existing in that campaign will know why Mr. Cantrill broke these engagements. Had he been a loyal Democrat he would have fulfilled his promises to speak, and he supported Mr. Hager by making the speeches he agreed to make, and thus given assurance to the people of Scott County and Georgetown as to his position in the matter. Wilson's majority in Georgetown in 1907 would have been no greater than O'Rear's in 1901.

Issue is Defined.

"The issue in this election is simply this: Shall the Seventh Congressional District be represented by someone in sympathy with the purposes and aspirations of our people, or shall these people continue to farm out the right of representation at Washington to the brewery and liquor interests whose headquarters are centered at Louisville? Everybody knows, and Mr. Cantrill would hardly deny, that for many years he has been the head and forefront of an alliance between these liquor interests and politics and some politicians formed and maintained to control offices and to make platforms of parties, and that this alliance is of a dual nature, embracing within its scope the politics and some politicians of both the Democratic and Republican parties.

"The people in that alliance have no politics. They are Democratic in the Seventh District because this district accords a Democratic majority of six thousand.

"The last one of them would be just as ardently Republican if they lived in the Eleventh District where the Republican majority is safe and dependable.

Party Fidelity Questioned.

"Mr. Cantrill and his associates have no politics. Their one and sole aim is the maintenance and extension of the liquor business. They fought successfully for twenty-five years the passage of a County Unit Bill; they would repeal it to-morrow if they had the opportunity. If they had the chance they would repeal every temperance statute that has been enacted. They would throw open every door that has been shut in the face of liquor. If they had their way there would be no Sunday closing and no statutes against selling to minors and inebriates. They would desecrate every house of worship by planting a saloon immediately opposite its front door, and they would undo and set aside the temperance work of half a century by placing a criminal grocery at every country crossroads in the State of Kentucky. These are the things they have stood for, fought for, and are standing for and fighting for to-day.

Saloon Element Opposed.

"Now, fellow Democrats, I said to you in a brief communication which I addressed to you in announcing myself for Congress that I was opposed to everything for which the saloon stands, and I am equally opposed to everything for which this alliance between liquor and certain Democrats and certain Republicans stand.

"Take their position on the Webb-Kenyon Bill. You know for many years the temperance people of the United States tried to induce Congress to pass a measure that would prohibit the interstate shipment of liquor into dry territory. You are aware, too, that a county or State which has gotten rid of the liquor business is troubled now and then by so-called bootleggers to whom liquor is shipped from another State, or who receive it in some way from another county within this State. The interstate shipment of liquor could be prevented only by the passage of an act of Congress. Shipment to dry territory from within the State could be ended only by an act of the State Legislature.

"Years ago a bill to prevent the interstate shipment of liquor into territory as the Webb-Kenyon Bill. There was lawful was introduced in the Senate at Washington by a great Tennessean, Senator Carmack, who could not be bought or intimidated by the liquor interests and who lost his life directly in consequence of his fight for the temperance cause. Subsequently it was reintroduced in the Senate by Mr. Kenyon, of Iowa, and in the House by Mr. Webb, of North Carolina, and it became then known no time within the past fifteen years that had made liquor selling untenable when a majority of the House and Senate did not favor this measure, but up to the time of its passage two years ago there had been no time when the liquor interests did not control the Committee on Rules, and was able therefore, through the Committee on Rules to prevent the bill being reported and placed upon its passage.

Measure Just One.

"Now is was a reasonable, fair and just measure, and none but the most thoroughly tried liquor people could have opposed its passage. It was intended only to enable the people of dry territory to carry out their will. It was in the interest of good order, common honor, good government, by good management the temperance people succeeded in having the bill reported to the House and placed upon its passage in February, 1912, just before Mr. Taft went out of office.

"When I announced myself a candidate for this high position Mr. Cantrill was in Washington and he at once addressed a communication to the Democrats of this district denouncing me, as he would have done no matter who the candidate had been, for having the temerity to oppose his aspirations for a fourth term (Mr. Cantrill has already been in Congress three terms), and demanding to know my position on the pending Hobson Resolution. As quickly as I could do so I answered him and stated that if I were elected to Congress I should conceive it to be my duty to vote for the Hobson Resolution. I take that position for two reasons, and the first is that a majority of the Democrats of this Congressional District favor that resolution.

People's Rights Approved.

"Secondly, I believe that the people should be allowed to decide for themselves whether or not a proposal of such consequence to them should become a part of the fundamental law that it should not be decided for them by a handful of Congressmen in the back office of the Committee on Rules at Washington. This is old-fashioned Democratic doctrine, and being a Democrat I conceive it to be my duty to be governed by the Democratic belief and principles.

"As soon as Mr. Cantrill came down to Kentucky he made his famous speech at the Lexington Opera House which had been heralded as the home-coming and keynote announcement of our distinguished Representative, and I have been informed that the reception accorded was not commensurate either with the importance of the occasion or with the extensiveness of the advertising which had been resorted to. At all events Congressman Cantrill caught the first train back to Washington, and having arrived there immediately secured a meeting of the Committee on Rules, of which he was a member, and begged and pleaded with the committee for a day, some say two days, to place the bill on its passage in order that it might be defeated, and that he might return to his district and say to his constituents 'that measure is no longer pending; there is no such measure before the House; it as long ago defeated.'

Committee Work Reviewed.

"You will remember, fellow Democrats, that a majority of the House favored the Hobson amendment, in order to secure its passage it must receive a majority of two-thirds. Mr. Hobson knew that it would not receive at the present time a two-thirds majority in its favor, but he believed it would receive such majority by next fall, and he had requested the committee not to have it reported for passage until that time. So when your Congressman got his committee together, nine members being present, of whom seven were Democratic Senators and Representatives with a prayer that it be submitted to Congress, and by Congress submitted to the people of the various States for a decision by them as to whether or not the manufacture and sale of liquor for beverage purposes should be continued in the United States. It could not become a law until ratified by three-fourths of the States of the Union, and if ratified by three-fourths of the States then it ought to become the law of America.

"Have you ever heard Mr. Cantrill's explanation of why he cast your vote against that bill? If you have not, I wish you would go to one of his speakings when you have an opportunity and I pledge you my word, if he sticks to the explanation, heretofore given, it is well worth the time and trouble of going. His explanations is two-fold. In the first place he says it is unconstitutional. Now I never heard that Mr. Cantrill is a lawyer, and if he is a lawyer I have never heard that it is the part of the legislature to determine finally whether or not proposed legislation is or is not constitutional. We have learned judges, paid good salaries, to pass upon the constitutionality of legislation.

Cantrill View Explained.

"In the second place Mr. Cantrill says that the Webb-Kenyon Bill was not just what the temperance people needed—that it would not have served the purposes they had in view, and therefore he supported a proposed amendment fixing a penalty to the statute, and this amendment, which of course, the temperance people in the HON. C. M. THOMAS.

House defeated, had it been adopted would have made the whole measure so thoroughly unconstitutional that you could have driven a distillery through it. And that was what the liquor fellows were trying to do. The Webb-Kenyon Bill would have died at its birth had Cantrill and his associates succeeded in their work.

"When I announced myself a candidate for this high position Mr. Cantrill was in Washington and he at once addressed a communication to the Democrats of this district denouncing me, as he would have done no matter who the candidate had been, for having the temerity to oppose his aspirations for a fourth term (Mr. Cantrill has already been in Congress three terms), and demanding to know my position on the pending Hobson Resolution. As quickly as I could do so I answered him and stated that if I were elected to Congress I should conceive it to be my duty to vote for the Hobson Resolution. I take that position for two reasons, and the first is that a majority of the Democrats of this Congressional District favor that resolution.

"You will observe that in this resolution there is no interference with private rights, no encroachments upon the home and no prevention of a man's drinking liquor if he wishes to do so. It could not be sold, manufactured for sale, transported or imported for sale.

Origin of Measure.

"I want to tell you something of the origin of this resolution. About the first of last December there met at Columbus, O., in some ways the most remarkable assembly of people ever gathered together in one body in the United States. In that meeting were representatives of every church in the United States, of every national organization of any character whose purpose is for the betterment of humanity and the establishment of the Christian virtues. In addition to all the churches there were representatives of such organizations as the Epworth League, the Christian Endeavor Society, the Anti-Saloon League and the Woman's Christian Temperance Union. There were representatives of ninety-seven organizations having a national life and influence. They represented more than half the population of the United States, and fully three-fourths of the area of Continental United States.

"Nine States of the Union have already adopted prohibition as a part of the fundamental law, and those nine States have a population of 14,500,000 people. Thirty-one other States have prohibition in counties, under county option laws, such as we have in Kentucky, and in those thirty-one States 27,000,000 of people are living under prohibition to-day. In all, 48,000,000 of the population of the United States, more than one-half of all our people are living under prohibition. And the territory in which they live embraces about 75 per cent. of the landed area of the United States. Now in those States which have adopted the Initiative and Referendum from two to five per cent. of the voters may demand the submission of any question for decision to the people.

Committee in Washington.

"I ask you should not Congress heed a request from 55 per cent. of the total population of the United States? That great convention sent a committee of 1,000 men and 1,000 women to Washington, and on the steps of the Capitol building they presented their petition to Lieutenant Hobson and many other distinguished Senators and Representatives with a prayer that it be submitted to Congress, and by Congress submitted to the people of the various States for a decision by them as to whether or not the manufacture and sale of liquor for beverage purposes should be continued in the United States. It could not become a law until ratified by three-fourths of the States of the Union, and if ratified by three-fourths of the States then it ought to become the law of America.

"But Mr. Cantrill objects, and for the liquor interests he proclaims that it could never be enforced. And when the liquor interests say that they defy the law making power and in effect say to it, 'We dare you to pass this law, and if you do pass it we will violate it in every State and every county in the Union?' Mr. Cantrill, as their advocate and champion served this notice for them. And Mr. Cantrill is a member of your law making power. I am in favor of giving them a chance. They would not violate it much, nor for long. They boastfully proclaim that they are selling more liquor with every spread of the prohibition law, but I saw in yesterday's paper that all the distillers of Kentucky, Illinois, Ohio and Indiana, practically all in this country who make corn whisky, have just concluded a meeting at which they came to the final conclusion to reduce the output of 1915 to one-half the amount produced per annum in recent years."

Mr. Cantrill says I did not vote for him; READ THIS:

The affiant, Howard Lancaster, states that he is City Electrician of the City of Paris, Kentucky, and that he was City Electrician of the City of Paris Kentucky, on the 8th day of November, 1910; and that as City Electrician he had his office and place of business at the Fire Department building in the City of Paris, Kentucky; and that Paris voting precinct No. 3 is situated in the Fire Department building and that he was present in the building a greater portion of the day on which the general election was held for Congressman in the Seventh District of Kentucky in the year 1910, in which the Hon. J. Campbell Cantrill was the Democratic nominee for Congress from said District and M. C. Rankin was his opponent on the Republican ticket; affiant states that the Hon. Claude M. Thomas was, at that time, a legal registered voter in said precinct and affiant states that he was in the building at the time the said Thomas cast his vote at said election; affiant further states that after the said Thomas had received his ballot and gone into the booth and voted same, the said Thomas came out of the said booth and called this affiant's attention to his ballot and asked him to see how the same had been voted; affiant states that he looked at said ballot and saw that the said Thomas had voted the straight Democratic ticket, thereby voting for the Hon. J. Campbell Cantrill for Congress in the said District at the said election; affiant further states that he knows of certain charges that have been made by the said Cantrill claiming that the Hon. Claude M. Thomas had failed to vote for him and had refused to vote for him at said general election and this affiant knows from his own knowledge that these statements are without foundation and are false for the reasons above stated.

Witness the hand of affiant, this 15th day of July, 1914.

Subscribed and sworn to before me by Howard Lancaster, this 15th day of July, 1914.

My commission expires 16th day of January, 1916.

Mr. F. M. Thompson,

Dear Sir:—

Find enclosed article which if you would publish in the News I will appreciate very much.

Yours very truly,

J. D. NUNELLEY.

THE ARTICLE.

I was born in a log cabin down here among the hills of old Eagle Creek. I have always fought my own fight in the great battle of life without the backing of any great Congressman like Mr. Cantrill claims to be, or without any special favors shown me by any political clique or boss. But notwithstanding these facts—which facts I am not ashamed of—I feel that I have a right to say something in my own behalf when I am personally attacked in a public speech by the (Great?) Congressman from our district. I want to say to the people of Scott county that Mr. Cantrill's attack on me in his speech at Sadieville was unfair, unmanly and uncalled for.

Up to the time of Mr. Cantrill's speech I had taken no part whatever in this campaign either for or against him. But when he comes to Sadieville the first thing he did was to send his political agent and manager down to the Post Office to see if he could not in some way either by persuasion or threats, induce me to take an active part in this political wrangle. This "Political Manager," Mr. H. Anderson, the Mark Hanna of the Democratic Party in Scott County, went so far as to say that "After the great gun went off which Mr. Cantrill would fire here against all those who opposed him there would be many dead pigeons in Scott County."

But after the gun has been fired and the noise and smoke of the battle has blown away we find that there are no "pigeons" dead and none very badly hurt, unless it be the one who fired the gun.

What grounds Mr. Cantrill had for his attack on me or what favors he expected to gain by it I fail to see. He admitted that I won my appointment to the Post Office by my own merit.

I also deny that they have any right to dictate as to how I shall vote in this or any other election.

letter which he had written to me in which he stated that I had made the highest grade and stood first on the list and that only one other applicant in the Seventh Congressional District had surpassed me in the examination.

He admitted that I was holding the office not through any favor of his, but in spite of all that he could do to prevent it. He intimated that if there had been any way either by fair means or unfair he would have taken the office from me and given it to another even though I had won it fairly and honestly.

He also stated in his speech that in a few days after I became postmaster that charges were made against me but as he refused to state the nature of those charges or to give the name of the one who made them I take the liberty to give you these facts myself. The charges were that I was not a patron of the Sadieville post office and were made by Mr. Orlie Truitt, one of the rankest Republicans in Scott County. And by the way, he was one of the Cantrill boosters here Friday.

The charges were so absurd that I felt that they needed no reply but I did make reply and sent the same to Mr. Can

MCLEOD FARM SOLD.

The McLeod farm of 216.67 acres, lying on the Maysville and Lexingtonpke, near Hutchison, and owned jointly by Mrs. John Donaldson and Mrs. Harold Snell, of Hutchison, was sold at public auction last Thursday by Harris & Speakes, real estate agents of this city, to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Snell, of Hutchison, for $165 an acre. The property was sold for the purpose of making a division of the estate. The farm is well watered and fenced and has eleven acres of tobacco, twenty-two acres in corn, forty acres of virgin soil and the remainder is good tobacco land. The place contains a modern two-story brick building, and the land is in a high state of cultivation.

Following the sale of the farm, Auctioneer George D. Speakes disposed of the stock, farming implements and household goods belonging to the estate of the late Mrs. Mary McLeod, as follows:

Cows, $40 to $68 each; yearling mules, $100; calves, $8 to $40 each; sheep, $5; shoats, $5; sows, $12 to $21; country lard, 12 to 16 cents per pound; hams, 27¢ to 28 cents per pound; side meat, 18½ cents per pound; shoulders, 18 to 20 cents per pound. Farm implements and household furniture sold well.

HEALTH AND WELFARE LEAGUE HEARS REPORT FROM NURSE.

That the work of the Bourbon County Health and Welfare League has been entrusted to competent hands is amply evidenced in the report of Mrs. Minnaker, the graduate nurse employed by the league to work in this city and county. At a recent meeting of the League, Mrs. Minnaker submitted a report of her month's work in which she included one hundred and ten visits made to the sick and needy in town, and thirty-six visits to homes in the county. The work being done by the League through this capable nurse is having a marvelous influence for good in the county and city, but the limited funds and provisions are a great drawback. Any contribution of money, clothing or provisions would be greatly appreciated if left at the Elgin cottage on Seventh Street.

MORGAN COUNTY SHERIFFS IN PARIS WITH MURDERER.

Deputy Sheriffs D. G. Lacy and John Wheeler of Morgan County, were in Paris yesterday, having in charge Ramsey Fannin, 25 years old, who was arrested in the Union Station, in Lexington Sunday afternoon. Fannin was wanted in Tazwell, Tennessee, on the charge of murder. He had escaped from the Tazewell jail by sawing his way out and had escaped the vigilance of the officers for over six months. He came to Eastern Kentucky, then to Lexington, and was preparing to go to a Western State when the officers arrived and placed him under arrest.

Fannin, who was heavily handcuffed, was brought from Lexington over the interurban yesterday morning by the officers and the party left for Tazewell on the 10:24 L. & N. train by way of Livingston. To a news reporter Fannin declared he did not know the name of the man he is charged with killing, and that he shot in self-defense. He was slightly wounded in the arm, but did not know his assailant had been killed until told by the officers.

—Following a long illness from a complication of diseases, Mr. Albert Lyons, aged 33 years, died at his home near Tenth street, Friday evening, at 9:30. His death was directly due to uremic poisoning.

Mr. Lyons was the son of Mrs. Maria Lyons, and has for many years conducted the business on Main Street, which was formerly in charge of his brother, the late George Lyons.

He had been in failing health for a year or more, but bravely continued to fight against the encroachment of disease until compelled to give up active management of his business.

Mr. Lyons was a young man of good temperament, very popular and well-known throughout Central Kentucky, where he had a host of friends.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Maria Lyons, his widow, formerly Miss Katherine Rassenfoss, and one brother, Mr. Harry Lyons, all of Paris.

The funeral took place at the Church of the Annunciation, in this city, yesterday morning at 9:30 o'clock, with services conducted by Rev. Father Eugene DeBruyn. The active pall-bearers were Frank Roche, Frank Grosche, Wm. Gregory, Hense Margolen, Geo. Gregory, E. G. Nichols, Wm. Higgins, Ray Harris. The honorary pall-bearers were Charles Peddicord, T. F. Brannon, Hugh Johnson, Geo. Browner, Jos. Melvin, James Porter, W. E. Orr, W. P. Coyne. The burial took place on the family lot in the Paris Catholic Cemetery.

AUTOMOBILE AND MOTORCYCLE COLLIDE ON ROADSIDE.

Mrs. Frank M. Clay's automobile, in which Mr. Douglas Clay and Misses Elizabeth Brown and Anna Wilson, with Mr. Coleman Renick at the wheel, were returning from Lexington, Sunday night, collided with a motorcycle on the Lexington pike, near the sub-station. The motorcycle with two riders, was speeding down the steep hill near Robert Mettee's place, and the auto was coming toward Paris. The riders were blinded by the glare of the lamps from the auto, and swerved into the path of the big machine, as the driver made an effort to turn out of the way and avoid a collision. The two machines crashed together, the motorcycle running into the right front tire of the automobile, which piled up on the latter. Both men were thrown from the motorcycle and badly bruised. The gasoline tank of the motorcycle caught fire and exploded, and in endeavoring to extinguish the flames Mr. Clay was painfully burned on the right hand and wrist. The two men on the motorcycle were pinned beneath the machine, and were rescued from their perilous position by Mr. Clay and Renick, placed in their car and brought to Paris. The driver, Jerry Hamm, of Little Rock, was sent to the Massie Memorial Hospital, and his companion, Mr. Curd, of Lexington, who was only slightly injured, was sent to his home.

Both the injured men were employees of the Lexington Ice Co. Their injuries are serious, but not dangerous.

NEW ENEMY OF TOMATO APPEARS IN THIS SECTION.

According to a well-known gardener of this city, a worm, evidently of the borer species, and very greatly resembling the tobacco worm, is making serious inroads upon the tomato crop. The worm attacks the ripe fruit, and entering the tomato, causes it to rot and to become entirely useless. The worm has only made its appearance in a few gardens, but has caused the destruction of a large amount of fruit. Gardeners should be on the lookout for the pest.

HUNTERS MAKING PREPARATIONS FOR DOVE SEASON.

The sportsmen of Paris and Bourbon County are now making their arrangements to take a vacation in August in order to take advantage of the dove season, which opens August 1. Prospective hunters have been busy hunting up their licenses and the guns which had been stowed away in closets and in attics are being brought out and refurbished (whatever that means) and supplies of shells renewed. Owing to the long dry summer the dove crop is said to be larger and better than for many years, and the all-important question is where are they the most plentiful?

WHY WEAK LUNGS?

The toll of tuberculosis is claiming more than 330 victims every day in the United States, yet few realize their grave condition until the critical period arrives.

Overwork, worry, weakness after sickness, catarrh, bronchitis, tender throats—all exert the weakening influence that invites consumption.

To guard against consumption, thousands of people take Scott's Emulsion after meals because its rich medicinal nourishment strengthens the lungs, puts vigor in the blood, and upbuilds strength to resist tuberculosis. Scott's Emulsion is nature's strength-builder. Refuse substitutes.

KLINE'S BIG SHOWS
BLUE GRASS FAIR

INCLUDE NEW ATTRACTIONS AND SURPRISES FOR THE PUBLIC.

Company to Appear at the Blue Grass Fair is the Best and Most Complete That Have Visited Kentucky.

This year as in the past the Kline Shows have added new attractions and surprises for the public, founded and perfected only by great labor, patience and skill with no spare of time and money to make their organization that which it is now, the most complete and best equipped carnival company touring the country to-day.

The repertoire of new ideas and novelties advanced are far above the old stereotyped carnivals of a few years ago.

Many startling features will be presented for the first time to the amusement loving public. The new attractions, the new riding devices are the most unique and far removed from all others.

The Kline Shows have been made popular by their clean class and character of everything undertaken. Nothing of a questionable nature has ever been tolerated. The usual catch-penny affair, games of chance, etc., have always been conspicuous by their absence.

The company this season is the largest, best and most complete the Kline Shows have ever had on the road. It consists of about 270 persons and the outfit will travel on a special train of twenty or more cars.

The aggregation will represent an investment of several hundred thousand dollars. The shows and attractions are varied, comprising everything with which people expect to be entertained and amused when they attend a fair or carnival. And the shows are all clean, that is one thing about which Mr. Kline is very particular.

He has a reputation which has resulted in the Kline Shows being booked by the biggest and best fairs in the country for a number of years. For five years he has been showing at the Dallas State Fair, an equal period at the Illinois State Fair and like places. This year in addition to the others, he has secured the New York State Fair, the biggest in the country.

The following are a few of the attractions to be seen with the Kline Shows.

The Walter K. Sibley, international lady champion swimmers and divers show is one of the big attractions. A special swimming tank has been constructed for the act, which is an innovation. In former years tanks have been made in each town by digging a hole in the ground and erecting a canvas screen around it. But this new tank is in two sections set on wagons. When the parts are clamped together a tank having a depth of about seven feet and thirty feet long by ten or twelve in width is made.

Mr. Kline has made arrangements for the appearance on Don Fulano, the educated horse. The animal is said to be without a peer and has been seen on the big-time vaudeville circuits. About two months ago he was one of the attractions on the Majestic Theater bill. He is in charge of Cowboy Elliott.

Princess Victoria, the miniature Mme. Melba, will be one of the big drawing cards. She is the smallest perfectly formed women in the world and has a voice of remarkable sweetness. The midget has been in San Antonio all winter and she has made a lot of friends.

The Nomia Musical Company.

Johnson's Nomia show is a musical comedy production carrying 20 people.

It is far superior to the average road show, being elaborately costumed and calling for a change of bill every day.

"Mexico," a reproduction of the scenes and life in the southern republics is expected to prove immensely popular in the Northern States, where people are anxious to know about the men and women in the country where revolutions have been in progress for the last four years. One of the features of the offering will be a sham battle. The show was planned and made ready in San Antonio and will carry eighty people and about thirty donkeys and horses.

A motordrome is now in course of construction for use with Mr. Kline's shows. The interior track has a steeper angle than any rider has yet attempted to negotiate on a motor cycle.

Hardy's high-wire act, one of the big free attractions for the Fiesta is under Mr. Kline's control. Hardy is said to be one of the cleverest high-wire performers in the world. He performed the perilous feat of crossing Niagara Falls on a wire.

GREAT ARE ATTRACTIONS

An Immense Display of Horses, Cattle, Sheep, Swine, Poultry and Pet Stock.

The management of the Blue Grass Fair are pleased to announce that plans are all under way to make this fair one of the most attractive of any that will be held in the Middle West during 1914.

An Aristocracy of Stock Will be gathered at Lexington during the week of August 3rd to 8th. Prize winning cattle will vie with blooded horse.

The Liberal Premiums Offered In all departments will engender a spirited strife, contention and rivalry among ardent contestants making a display greatly in excess of that witnessed at any former fair.

CURED OF INDIGESTION.

Mrs. Sadie P. Clawson, Indiana, Pa., was bothered with indigestion. "My stomach pained me night and day," she writes. "I would feel bloated and have headache and belching after eating. I also suffered from constipation. My daughter had used Chamberlain's Tablets and they did her so much good that she gave me a few doses of them and insisted upon my trying them. They helped me as nothing else has done." For sale by all dealers. (adv-july)

Sloan's Liniment gives instant relief from Neuralgia or Sciatica. It goes straight to the painful part—Sooths the Nerves and stops the Pain. It is also good for Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Chest Pains and Strains. You don't need to rub, it penetrates. Mr. J. R. I used Sloan's Liniment for two or three nights and I haven't suffered with my head since." Get a bottle to-day. ARNOLD DOUGLAS BROWN

Some 35 years ago Mr. Arnold Douglas Brown became associated with Donald McKay, Chief of the Warm Springs Indians. This was soon after the close of the Modoc War of 1873. The whole country was at that time interested in the success of Donald McKay and his Warm Springs Indians and their war against Captain Jack and his Modoc warriors.

Arnold Douglas Brown became interested with Donald McKay in giving a series of Indian exhibitions, visiting all the large cities of the United States. With these Indians there was an old Indian Medicine Man who had been taken along by the company to look after the health of the tribe in case of sickness.

This old Medicine Man and Arnold Douglas Brown became staunch friends and many valuable secrets of how to make medicines as the Indians used them, were given Mr. Brown. Among them was the formula of Brown's Native Herbs in Liquid Form, composed of roots and herbs of the forest.

In after years Mr. Arnold Douglas Brown kept experimenting and gradually perfecting a system of production whereby he brought out this great Indian Medicine and gave it the name of Brown's Native Herbs in Liquid Form. A medicine which has made Mr. Arnold Douglas Brown famous throughout the country, because this remedy has proven itself as simple as Nature itself. It brings about healthy, lasting action and effect upon the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach, Bowels and Blood. Building up the Blood, purifying the system, strengthening the nerves and restoring healthy action to every function of the human body. People suffering with Stomach Trouble, Constipation or feel run-down in any way will find Brown's Native Herbs in Liquid Form a great medicine. All druggists sell it at $1.00 a bottle. Use Brown's Liniment for all aches and pains. Price 25c.

A Hole in the Wall

A large and very gray old dog came shambling up the pebbled path leading to the veranda of Orrin Cannon's country home. With a half growl at the owner, the animal entered the open door and vanished down the corridor.

Cannon was a new resident of Dewberry, the little village that he had motored through the year before, and that had so inspired him by its quiet and its greenness. This old manse, with the well-kept lawn and neat paths and rare shrubbery, had appealed to him, and a chance remark to the one general merchant of the community, where he had stopped to buy gasoline, had elicited the information that the place was for sale. An impulsive word to his lawyer upon reaching Boston, and the estate was his.

Cannon possessed a fine greyhound. After the curious dog had entered the house there came out to the nature lover the sounds of strenuous battle.

"Keno objects to company," laughed Cannon, as he hurriedly entered the house.

The aged shepherd dog was outclassed. He was pretty well torn by the punishing jaws of the lithe Keno before Cannon could part them.

Strange to say, the old dog showed no disposition to leave, even after this chastisement. Calling a servant, Cannon turned over to him the bruised and mangled canine with instructions to mend him as well as possible before allowing him to go his way.

That afternoon the Bostonian received his first visitor—a minister of a sect of worship strong in New England.

"I am the pastor of the local flock," prefaced Rev. John Dobbs, "and I came to ask if we are to include you in our congregation."

Before Cannon could answer, there came to him again the war-like canine voices, and rushing into the hall he dragged the resentful greyhound from the persistent collie.

"I perceive," came from Rev. John Dobbs, when the two were again in the parlor. "I perceive, sir, that you are of a kindly disposition. Miss Helen will thank you for your treatment of her dog. He is old. He forgets that this place is no longer his home."

"Ah, then he used to belong here? That accounts for his persistence!"

"Yes, he is owned by Miss Helen. When her uncle died, and by some mischance failed to leave a will making her his heiress, his scapegrace son came into the property, and it was promptly offered for sale. We are all positive that Judge Gray wished Helen to have, at his demise, all of his earthly possessions, but—"

The visit of the minister was followed within the hour by the arrival of a very pretty and evidently very much worried young woman.

"You!" she cried when Orrin Cannon answered the ring at his door.

Cannon's own dark eyes beamed recognition.

"You!" he echoed. "Helen Darrow, of all people! I can't imagine you as a resident of this town."

"Nevertheless, I am," laughed the girl. "The miracle, to my mind, is that you are the Cannon who has bought my uncle's home." A wistful look came into her great blue-black eyes. "I don't know of any one I would rather see here," she finished.

It was a warm June day. Cannon had drawn a porch chair forward for the girl.

"You should have married me, Helen," said the man. "You know I loved you, and—sometimes—I half believed you loved me—in spite of the fact that you sent me away."

"Bark, g-r-o-w-l, bark," came from the hall, and with an impatient explanation Cannon sprang to his feet and dashed into the hall.

The dogs were fighting again.

While the two previous battles were beyond doubt won by the greyhound, this melee was in favor of the collie, who had a throat hold on his enemy.

Hither and yon threshed the combatants, nor could Cannon get to them until after they had smashed into a heavy umbrella holder and sent it crashing to the floor.

Then a strange thing happened.

As the huge affair struck the side of the tiled wall three feet of this swung silently inward on a concealed hinge to reveal a heavy safe.

"Oh!"

The girl, who had followed Cannon into the hall, gasped at the revelation.

"The hidden safe that uncle told me of, and that I could never find!"

The door of the safe was ajar. It contained but one article—an important looking paper.

"A will!" came breathlessly from the girl, after she had read this, and it leaves everything to me!"

"Which," ruefully commented the youth, with a sigh, "puts you farther away from me than ever."

"It unites us," corrected the girl, and two arms, there in the dusk of the hall, crept up and about his neck. "I would be lonesome here alone—dear—I want you. I—I want you, O! so much."

Outside, the greyhound bayed angrily, and the collie on guard at the door, ears a-cock, growled in defiance.

GRAND LODGE OF ELKS.

What Was Done at a Business Session of the Convention Held in Denver.

The Grand Lodge of the Benevolent Protective Order of Elks in golden Jubilee session at Denver, Colorado, with the annual national reunion of the order, decided to recognize the State reunion of associations of Elks; refused to provide, at present for the publication of a national Elk’s journal; disapproved of a proposition to make members who have served as secretaries of subordinate lodges for ten consecutive years members of the Grand Lodge; condemned the use of the national anthem for advertising purposes, and approved a resolution extending fraternal good will to Confederate and Union veterans of the Civil war.

Southern delegates protested vigorously against being penalized for the colored population of Southern cities.

The Grand Lodge rescinded its action of a year ago and reinstated 5,000 population as a requisite for a lodge dispensation, stipulating, however, “five thousand white” population. The subject will come up again for a motion to refer to a committee for report.

“DRY” PETITION FOR ANDERSON MISSING.

The petition filed by the “drys” at Anderson County last Tuesday at Lawrenceburg has been stolen, and County Clerk Cook says he has no knowledge of the time or manner of its disappearance. Wednesday evening Mr. Cook put the petition in a place known only to himself and the County Judge, as he thought, but Friday, when the receptacle was opened, the paper was gone.

Jailer Siers says he saw a light in the County Clerk’s office about 10 o’clock Wednesday night, but, thinking the clerk or his deputy were at work, he made no investigation. The loss was discovered when counsel for the “drys” filed a supplemental petition, bringing the number of their signatures up to 841. The lost paper contained 759 names.

BOURBON GET $2,834.50 INCREASE FOR SCHOOLS.

At Frankfort, Thursday, Superintendent of Public Instruction Barksdale Hamlet fixed the school per capita for 1914-1915 at $4.50, which is an increase of 50 cents over the per capita of 1913-1914.

This increase will mean that the schools of Bourbon County will receive an advance of $2,834.50 more than they received last year.

There are 5,696 children of school age in Bourbon County. Of this number 2,133 reside within the limits of Paris, and 3,536 reside in the county, outside of Paris.

Under the new allowance as set aside by Supt. Hamlet, Bourbon County schools will receive a total of $25,310.50. Of this amount the Paris City Schools will receive a total of $9,398.50, and the county schools will benefit to the extent of $15,912.

In 1913-1914 the Bourbon County schools outside of Paris received a total of $14,276.28, the number of children in the county of school age at that time being 3,530, and the per capita being $4.06.

Besides the above amount, Bourbon County schools, outside of Paris, received in 1913-1914 a total of $13,457.92 from the county taxes, making a total derived from all sources for school purposes in the county, Paris excluded, of $27,734.20.

This amount of money was used in paying the salaries of the county teachers, building new school houses, improvements, maintenance, etc.

During the 1913-1914 school term, 42 white pupils and 4 colored pupils were sent to the High Schools at Paris and Little Rock. During the same period, Bourbon County, outside of Paris, had 38 white teachers and 24 colored teachers.

Scattered throughout the county, there are 38 district libraries belonging to the different schools.

A total of $20,167.75 was paid to the sixty-two teachers of Bourbon County, excluding Paris, during the 1913-1914 season, or an average of $341 each for the term.

The State Auditor’s Department, at Frankfort, estimated the school revenue for the current year at $3,061,544, to which is added the balance in the school fund, making the total amount available, as estimated, $3,699,544. There are 730,000 children of school age in the State, and the State fund will be distributed among the counties and cities in proportion to the scholastic population, on the basis of $4.50 for each pupil. The State fund can be used only for paying teachers’ salaries.

CYCLONE AT HENDERSON.

Woman and Her Thirteen-Year-Old Nephew Crushed to Death In Building.

Two persons were killed, several others injured and scores of buildings damaged in a cyclone which struck Henderson, late Friday. It is estimated the damage will reach $170,000. The municipal electric light plant was partially destroyed and the city is in darkness. Fires started in two different sections after the tornado had passed, but were quickly extinguished.

The dead are: Mrs. William Sewell and her thirteen-year-old nephew, Bonnie Prior. Both were crushed to death when a three-story brick building was blown over on their home.

The cyclone started at the south edge of the city and swept a path four blocks wide and twelve blocks long through the main business and residential section.

GATUN LAKE STANDS TEST.

Resources of Gatun Lake, the wondrous artificial reservoir which is the main dependence of the Panama Canal for its water supply, have proven ample to meet all possible demands, after the most severe practical tests. Although the amount of water which ran into the lake during the last dry season—January to April, inclusive—was less than in any similar period for the last 22 years, being only 61 per cent. of the normal collection, the lake was maintained at its proper elevation throughout that period.

GIVES GROUNDHOG DINNER

Farmers near Hagerstown, Ind., have found a new way to reduce the cost of living and to benefit their farms at the same time. J. C. Wilkinson recently showed them how. He invited a number of friends to dinner and a delectable meal, supposed by most of the guests to be squirrel, was served. After the cigars had been passed, Mr. Wilkinson told them that it was ground hog. These make good food and their killing off is a boon to the farmer, for in their search for food the animals have devastated clover fields, gardens and truck patches, and in many instances have made raids on poultry yards.

TUBERCULOSIS COMMISSION’S MOTION PICTURE EXHIBIT.

The Kentucky Tuberculosis Commission is preparing to send its exhibit of motion pictures to a number of Central Kentucky counties this summer. The Commission has a complete equipment for producing moving pictures and will be shown in the open air or in conveniently located churches. Local arrangements in various counties will be made by county health officers and county superintendents of schools. Moving pictures and slides, accompanied by brief lectures, will give the average layman all the essential facts he ought to know about consumption. The pictures are shown free.
